

Inaction of the talemens by Mr. Untermyer, assisted by Robert Johnstone, head of the Appeal Bureau in the District Attorney's office and an expert in drawing indictments. Johnstone has been loaned to Mr. Untermyer by District Attorney Swann.

In questioning the prospective jurors Mr. Untermyer asked if the talemens were employers of labor, whether they were committed to union labor or prejudiced against unions; whether they favored the enforcement of the laws forbidding price fixing and the anti-trust laws; whether their business was competitive; whether they belonged to political organizations, and if so, whether "any politicians had any strings" on them.

Those accepted were: Bevoort Allen, insurance, No. 56 Cedar Street.

Charles W. Brand, clothing manufacturer, No. 84 Broadway.

Abraham Newman, manufacturer, No. 122 Fourth Avenue.

James Nathan, merchant, No. 611 Broadway.

Thomas M. McCarthy, Treasurer of Austin Nichols & Co., No. 100 Hudson Street.

Julius Bachrach, real estate, No. 120 Broadway.

John M. O'Connor, publisher, No. 31 Fifth Avenue.

Henry W. Guernsey, Treasurer, No. 1 West 39th Street.

A. R. Moen, real estate, No. 525 Park Avenue.

Dennis G. Trussell, trustee, No. 62 West 39th Street.

George H. Kohn, retired and manager of an estate at No. 24 Fifth Avenue.

Benjamin Gerstmann, shirt manufacturer, No. 314 West 94th Street.

Charles C. Stillman, trustee, No. 3 East 44th Street.

Charles W. Brand, imports and exports, No. 29 Broadway.

James P. Hardy, real estate, No. 1435 Broadway.

George H. Thorne, boiler salesman, No. 43 East 27th Street.

Victor Lamar, vintner, No. 877 Broadway.

Morris Helmeringer, retired banker, No. 31 East 79th Street.

Emil Frankel, insurance, No. 16 Maiden Lane.

Julius Oppenheimer, sausage casings, No. 71 West 87th Street.

Constant J. Spero, importer, No. 29 Broadway.

Lee T. Smith, real estate, No. 640 West 118th Street.

Benjamin Stern, retired, No. 1187 Lexington Avenue.

Harry Goodstein, real estate, No. 60 West 87th Street.

Those excused were Herman Rawlins, a client of Untermyer; Isaac Landman, a member of the Almiral Extraordinary Grand Jury; Thomas J. McLaughlin, builder; Frederick W. Lord, an electrical contractor; and Herman S. Kip, an undertaker.

J. H. Norton, a member of the Oecolia Club and a lieutenant of Tammany Leader Jerry Mahoney, asked to be excused because of his business affiliations. This was denied by Judge Mulqueen, who said Mr. Untermyer was also a member of the Oecolia Club. An excuse because of a business emergency was granted.

Of the sixty talemens called, only thirty-six appeared. Judge Mulqueen said the absentees would be fined $100 each and required to show cause why they should not be dropped from the Grand Jury list. Twenty-three jurors are required.

After selecting Thomas M. McCarthy as foreman, Judge Mulqueen charged the jurors to be particularly careful in keeping their work secret inasmuch as many persons of great wealth, prominence and influence in the community were to be involved in their investigations. He told them to bear in mind that there was a three years penalty for one who destroyed evidence or otherwise refused to obey a grand jury subpoena.

"The practice of extortion is repugnant to free institutions," he said. "And if it can be practiced against honest laboring men, then our Government is a sham. The same is true of unlawful use of the power to start or settle strikes. The unlawful use of such power as a means of levying tribute on rich or poor must be stamped out."

FINDS RECTOR OWED CHURCH $370,000

Referee Says Father Strzelecki Pocketed St. Stanislaus Receipts.

An astonishing manipulation of church funds by its rector is disclosed in the report of Referee John F. Brennan, of No. 18 Getty Square, Tonkers, filed to-day with surrogate Foley and allowing the claim of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York for $370,762 against the estate of the late Rev. John M. Strzelecki, who was rector of the Church of St. Stanislaus, No. 127 East Seventh Street, at the time of his death, Dec. 8, 1918.

WILSON MAY CALL TREATY UP AGAIN AFTER ELECTION

Senate Expected to Be in More Conciliatory Mood at Regular Session.

WANTS IT ALL SETTLED.

Next President Would Gladly Have the Quarrel Out of the Way.

By David Lawrence.

(Special Correspondent of The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1 (Copyright, 1920).—Aside from the actual result of the election, perhaps nothing has given greater concern here than the possible effect upon President Wilson of an adverse verdict at the polls.

The President has always had unbounded confidence in his own judgment of what the American electorate would do, and yet many of his friends think he will be greatly disappointed this time. In 1916 he had reversed before, as in 1918, but nothing as close to his heart as the Covenant of the League of Nations.

It has been argued convincingly in the press that the election result will not have indicated anything conclusive about the League and will only have registered the natural reaction of a people against their war Government something that has happened throughout Europe. But nobody in the inner circles of the Administration has probably paved the way for tomorrow's defeat. So far as is generally known, the President has been continuously optimistic about the outcome.

Were it not for the frail condition of the President's health, the election might not be a moment for anxiety. The possibility that the Senate might go Democratic has been held out as a consolation, especially since it might mean the resumption of the peace treaty at the December session of Congress in an effort once more to reach a compromise.

The new Senate would not, of course, take office until after next March, when a special session would be called, but it is believed the effect of Democratic victory in the Senate might mean a more conciliatory mood in the session of Congress to be convened next month.

Friends of the League of Nations will not wait until a special session of Congress is called next spring in order to push for the ratification of the treaty with proper reservations. Every vote taken in the Senate has shown more than two-thirds of the Senate as favoring ratification of the Treaty and League in some form.

It would help the next Administration immensely if the troublesome treaty question were out of the way when the new Administration came in power so that domestic affairs might be given undivided attention.

More than a year has already been spent in wrangling over the treaty and the League, while domestic issues like taxation have suffered by neglect. The treaty question may suffer if postponed to a special session of Congress.

It is considered possible that President Wilson's attitude toward a compromise on reservations will have been greatly softened by the verdict at the polls and that a non-partisan or bi-partisan movement may yet be started to bring about America's entry into the League during the remaining days of President Wilson's Administration. It would mean the President probably and give him strength to bear the strain of his illness.

WILSON REPORTED IMPROVING IN HEALTH.

The true condition of the President is a matter of conjecture. Few people know, though there is the usual amount of rumor about a "relapse." The best information the writer has been able to obtain is that the President has been steadily improving and is much better than he was six months ago. The President does not read newspapers generally and it is said that he has not been given any pessimistic reports about the campaign, so that very probably the result will come as a shock to him.

As for the rumors of resignation in the event of defeat at the polls, the inference is believed to have been drawn from a recent speech of Governor Cox in which he predicted the "retirement" of the President from public affairs. It is not generally credited that he will abandon his post before the close of his administration. On the other hand, if he believed that by eliminating his own personality as a factor, Vice-President Marshall might be able to negotiate a settlement of the treaty question with the Republican Senate he would probably resign.

Yet it is known that Mr. Marshall doesn't share the President's views on the election on the plans of President Wilson. Partnership may disappear with the election, and after a month's intermission the next Congress may come back in a better mood to take up the matter of foreign policy and dispose of it before an avalanche of domestic problems like the excess profits tax comes down on the "next Administration."

SMITH G. O. P. MEN BARRED MILLER FLAGS IN PARADE

Those in Charge Warned Not to Feature the Nominee For Governor.

A significant feature of the great Republican parade in Fifth Avenue last Thursday night which has caused widespread comment in political circles in New York City and in up-State cities was the absence of any reference by banner, button or vocal expression to the candidacy for the office of Governor of Judge Nathan L. Miller, the Republican standard bearer.

Judge Miller was one of the speakers in the rally in Carnegie Hall which followed the parade but he did not appear in the parade proper, nor was he one of the members of the party of Republican leaders in the reviewing stand at the Union League Club. As the parade filed by the Union League Club there were loud cheers for Gov. Smith, launched from the ranks of the paraders on three occasions, but at no time was there a voice raised in praise of the Republican candidate.

It was admitted by well informed Republican leaders that the lack of recognition of the Republican candidate was not accidental. The story of how it all came about cannot, of course, be verified, but politicians tell it this way:

Direct notification was given to the committee which had the demonstration in charge that many thousands of the young men who had signified a willingness to take part in the parade were for Gov. Smith and in any way, approval of Judge Miller or his candidacy they would refuse to march and make the reason for their refusal public.

Much of this sentiment for Gov. Smith is, it is admitted by Republican leaders, due to the open declaration that he is in favor of an amendment to the Volstead Act, which would permit the manufacture and sale of wine and beer. Judge Miller's plea for the support of the drys has alienated the support of an army of Republicans of this city and Thursday night's parade was striking evidence of the fact.

They consider that the Democratic votes which will be lost by Gov. Smith to Dudley Field Malone will be more than offset by Republican votes which will be lost by Judge Miller to Senator George F. Thompson, who is not making his fight on the Prohibition issue, but is appealing to Republicans to vote against Judge Miller because, he claims, the Republican candidate is the choice of great financial interests which seek to control the State Government and of the bankers back of the New York Trust Company, which are clamoring for an eight-cent street car fare.

Thursday night's parade, which utterly ignored the leading candidate on the State ticket, was a rarity in political demonstrations.

The parade was originally intended to occur on the night of Oct. 25, when it was expected that Senator Harding would review it. But his managers decided that his energies would be better expended in a more doubtful quarter and it was impossible to arrange for his presence in the city. Thereupon the parade was postponed until Oct. 28 and Gov. Coolidge came to review it.

When Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherman, the grand marshal of the parade and its organizer, in conjunction with Roger W. Allen, executive secretary of the Business Men's Republican Association, was asked to-day if it was true that no banner nor transparencies were carried in the parade to promote the candidacy of Nathan L. Miller nor that of Senator Wade nor any of the State ticket, he said:

"It was a Harding and Coolidge parade and it was in support of the National ticket and was arranged at the request of the Republican National Committee."

"Were any of the Republican State candidates located in the parade?"

"The parade was to boost Harding and Coolidge," was the answer.

When Mr. Allen was asked these same questions he declined to be quoted in any way.

COX IS GAINING IN NEW JERSEY

Trend Toward Him Late Lately Has Been Tremendous Says Gov. Edwards.

"If the trend toward Gov. Cox is as great in other States as it is in New Jersey, the Governor will be elected without a doubt," declared Governor Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, of New Jersey when asked his opinion to-day concerning the election results.

Governor Edwards declined to make an estimate on the election figures, but said: "The trend toward Governor Cox in New Jersey during the last three weeks has been tremendous and I would not be surprised if he carried the state. The Republicans will not get any such vote as they predict. They will be lucky if they carry the state by 50,000. Hudson County is safe for the Democratic candidate."

In a speech last night Governor Edwards said Cox would carry Hudson County by 70,000.

VILNA TO TAKE PLEDISCITE.

WARSAW, Nov. 1.—The Council of Ministers has agreed to a plebiscite under the control of the League of Nations to determine the status of the Vilna district.

AMERICAN WINS LEAD IN SECOND FISHERMEN'S RACE

Canadian Craft Had Forged Ahead Near Start but Could Not Hold Place

HALIFAX, Nov. 1.—The plucky Gloucester schooner Esperanto this afternoon leaped into the lead in the second international fishermen's race after having eluded the heels of the Canadian contender, Delawana, for about thirty miles.

Esperanto gained a half length at the start by the clever handling of her skipper, but on the first of the five legs dropped behind length by length, losing four minutes behind her rival at the first turn and about five at the second.

Rain fell after the schooners had begun their second leg, and the feeble breeze hauling around toward the north, both kept their stayalls set although stray puffs never really filled them. The wind shifted to north-northeast, giving the schooners a close reach instead of a run on the third leg.

At 12:30 the schooners were holding their relative positions. Esperanto was pointing a bit higher and it seemed as if Marty was punching her. Delawana was footing faster. Ten minutes later the Canadian came about and headed for the buoy. Esperanto followed at 12:42.

Esperanto turned at 1:21, unofficial time, having cut her rival's lead nearly in half by Capt. Himmelman overhauling his mark a quarter of a mile.

Sailing closer into the wind than her rival, the Gloucesterman cut Delawana's lead in half at the third turn, and was only a few lengths behind.

At 2:10 both vessels were headed far to the windward of the inner-automotive buoy, the last turn before setting the course for the finish line. At this time the wind had increased to ten knots. Delawana was not only maintaining her lead, but appeared to be slightly increasing it.

At 2:30 the Gloucester boat had caught up with her rival. It was nip and tuck as the two schooners raced for the home stretch. After having sped up with her rival, Esperanto seemed to drop out of a couple of lengths when the fourth mark was less than five miles away.

DELAWANA OWNER STRICKEN

Stroke of Paralysis Believed to Be Due to Excitement Over Race.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 1.—W. C. Smith of Lunenburg, managing owner of the schooner Delawana, Canadian entry in the contest for the North Atlantic Fishing Fleet championship, was stricken with paralysis in the rotunda of the Halifax Hotel here last night.

Mr. Smith was removed to his room and medical aid was summoned. He had revived slightly at a late hour, although his speech was affected considerably.

Excitement attendant upon the race is believed in some degree to be responsible for the stroke.

MOTHER FINDS SON LOST IN THE WEST FOR 19 YEARS

Returns Prosperous, Married, and Owner of a Home—Got Clue in Odd Way.

For the first time in nineteen years—that is, since he was eight years old—Harry Morris met his mother to-day at her home at No. 1588 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn. In all these years of separation the young man—he is twenty-seven now—has been working in the West and making his way so well in the world that he has a home, a wife and two children, not to mention a profitable business.

Morris and his mother were separated when she found she could no longer take care of him. She then sought the help of the Children's Aid Society which sent him out to Nebraska. There he worked on farms and eventually all trace of him was lost. Six months ago his mother appealed to the society to find him and letters were sent to all the places at which he was known to have lived. One of these was to a woman with whom he had boarded.

By this time Morris was making a good living and in the course of his travels he came one day to the home of the woman with whom he lived. She told him of the letter from the society and Morris planned for the trip eastward.

He said to-day that he intended soon to return to his home in the West.

CAPTURED IN CHASE AFTER RING THEFT

Fugitive Pursued Seven Blocks and Through Apartment House by Jeweler.

Max Gerson, proprietor of a jewelry store at No. 454 Jackson Avenue, Jersey City, recovered a $600 diamond ring to-day by overtaking a man, who, he said, dashed out of the store with the ring after it had been shown to him. Gerson chased the man seven blocks and up four flights of stairs to the top of an apartment house at Bergen and Boyd Avenues, despite the fact that the man had a block's start before Gerson could run around his counter and get to the door.

Patronman Frank Flick also joined in the race and arrested the fugitive who said he was Edward Nelson, thirty-three, of No. 181 Dwight Street, Jersey City. The police say his real name is George Burns. He was held on a charge of entering and grand larceny.

LETS MOTHER SEE CHILD.

Court, However, Refuses to Give Mrs. Kuna Custody of Daughter.

Supreme Court Justice McAvoy to-day modified the decree of divorce granted seven years ago against May M. Zuk, now the wife of Dr. Hugo Kuna, of 819 Riverside Drive, in favor of "permitting" the mother to visit the child at the home of the father one day each week from 3 to 6 o'clock.

The Justice refused to grant Mrs. Kuna's request that she be permitted to take her daughter Dorothy, the child of her first marriage, to her present home.

Mrs. Kuna in her application revealed the fact that her present husband was the co-respondent named in Mr. Zuk's suit for divorce. Mr. Zuk now lives at No. 203 West 117th Street.
